PREFATORY NOTE.

"Parnham" in the reign of Henry VII. was a Manor of the Strode family, who then owned the larger portion of the County of Dorset. The house was built in great part during that reign and in the following reign, viz. : Henry VIII., the then owner, Sir Robert Strode "re-edified and enlarged" the house and built the present front very much as it now stands. It remained in the possession of this family for over 200 years, when it passed, by the marriage of the heiress and last of the Strodes, to Sir William Oglander, of Nunwell, in the Isle of Wight, in whose family it continued, until 1874, when it was devised by will to the late Vice-Admiral Sir Robert O'Brien Fitzroy, K.C.B., from whose trustees it was purchased by the late Mr. Vincent J. Robinson. This gentleman, a Fellow of the Society of Antiquarians, was well known as a connoisseur of architecture and furniture appertaining to the Tudor Period, and his collection at "Parnham," is mainly of pieces of the XVIth and XVIIth Centuries, thus harmonising with the period during which the house was built, although many of them are foreign and especially of Italian origin.

His work, "Ancient Furniture and other Works of Art," illustrative of his collection, was published in 1902 by Bernard Quaritch, and from this the illustrations in this Catalogue have been produced. It is also worthy of note that a large number of the pieces were lent to the Bethnal Green branch of the South Kensington Museum for the Exhibition of 1892, and certain of them are also to be found described and illustrated in many books on old furniture.
